

TITLE 26

OFFENSES AND PENALTIES

CHAPTER 26.01
General Purposes

26.0101 The general purposes.

The general purposes of this Title are to establish a system of prohibitions, penalties, and correctional measures to deal with conduct that unjustifiably and inexcusably causes or threatens harm to an individual or public interests for which tribal protection is appropriate. To this end, the provisions of this Title are intended, and shall be construed, to achieve the following objectives:

1. To ensure the public safety through:
 - a. vindication of public norms by the imposition of merited punishment;
 - b. the deterrent influence of the penalties hereinafter provided;
 - c. the rehabilitation of those convicted of violations of this title; and
 - d. such confinement as may be necessary to prevent likely recurrence of serious criminal behavior.
2. By definition and grading of offenses, to define the limits and systematize the exercise of discretion in punishment and to give fair warning of what is prohibited and of the consequences of violation.
3. To prescribe penalties which are proportionate to the seriousness of offenses and which permit recognition of differences in rehabilitation possibilities among individual offenders.
4. To safeguard conduct that is without guilt from condemnation as criminal and to condemn conduct that is with guilt as criminal.
5. To prevent arbitrary or oppressive treatment of persons accused or convicted of offenses.

ADOPTED TMBC5619-04-94 AMENDED REMOVED PARAGRAPH 6 BY RESOLUTION TMBC1246-06-18.

CHAPTER 26.02
Proof and Presumptions

26.0201 An accused is presumed innocent until proven guilty.

1. No person may be convicted of an offense unless each element of the offense is proved beyond a reasonable doubt. A person is presumed innocent until proven guilty. The fact that a person has been arrested, confined, or charged with the offense gives rise to no inference of guilt at his his/her Tribal Court procedure. "Element of an offense" means:
 - a. the forbidden conduct;
 - b. the associated circumstances specified in the definition and grading of the offense;
 - c. the required culpability;
 - d. any required result; and
 - e. the nonexistence of a defense as to which there is evidence in the case sufficient to give rise to a reasonable doubt on the issue.
2. Subsection 1 does not require invalidating a defense:
 - a. by allegation in the charging document; or
 - b. by proof, unless the issue is in the case as a result of evidence sufficient to raise a reasonable doubt on the issue.
3. Unless it is otherwise provided or the context plainly requires otherwise, if an offense outside this Title defining an offense, or a related statute, or rule or regulation thereunder, contains a provision constituting an exception from criminal liability for conduct which would otherwise be included within the prohibition of the offense, that the defendant came within such exception is a defense. Subsection 1 does not apply to any defense which is explicitly designated an "affirmative defense." An affirmative defense must be proven by the defendant by a preponderance of evidence.

4. When a statute establishes a presumption, it has the following consequences:
 - a. If there is sufficient evidence of the facts which gave rise to the presumption, the presumed fact is deemed sufficiently proved to warrant submission of the issue to a jury unless the court is satisfied that the evidence as a whole clearly refuted the presumed fact.
 - b. In submitting the issue of the existence of the presumed fact to a jury, the court shall charge that, although the evidence as a whole must establish the presumed fact beyond a reasonable doubt, the jury may arrive at that judgment on the basis of the presumption alone, since the law regards the facts giving rise to the presumption as strong evidence or the fact presumed.
5. When a statute declares that given facts constitute a prima facie case, proof of such facts warrants submission of a case to the jury with the usual instructions on burden of proof and without additional instructions attributing any special probative force to the facts proved.

ADOPTED TMBC5619-04-94

26.0502 Mistake of law.

Except as otherwise expressly provided, a person's good faith belief that conduct does not constitute a crime is an affirmative defense if he acted in reasonable reliance upon a statement of the law contained in:

1. A statute or other enactment.
2. A judicial decision, opinion, order, or judgment.
3. An administrative order or grant of permission.
4. An official interpretation of the public servant or body charged by law with responsibility for the interpretation, administration, or enforcement of the law defining the crime.

ADOPTED TMBC5619-04-94

26.0503 Insanity or mentally incapacity as a defense.

1. A criminal act is not punishable when the offender, while committing the crime, was insane or mentally incapacitated.
2. A person is not responsible for criminal conduct if, at the time of such conduct, as a result of mental disease or defect, he lacks substantial capacity either to appreciate the criminality (wrongfulness) of his conduct or to conform his conduct to the requirements of law.

ADOPTED TMBC5619-04-94

26.0504 Intoxication.

Incapability because of self-inflicted intoxication by drinking intoxicants or the introduction of foreign substances in the body is not an exonerating factor. Evidence of intoxication is admissible whenever it is relevant to negate or establish an element of the offense charged. ADOPTED TMBC5619-04-94

26.0505 Juvenile prosecution.

Persons under the age of eight (8) years are deemed incapable of commission of an offense defined by the constitution or Code of this Tribe. A person between the age of eight (8) and fifteen (15) years shall not be tried as an adult.

ADOPTED TMBC5619-04-94

26.0506 Self Defense.

A person is justified in using force upon another person to defend himself against danger of imminent unlawful bodily injury, sexual assault, or detention by such other person, except that:

1. A person is not justified in using force for the purpose of resisting arrest, execution of process, or other performance of duty by a public servant under color of law, but excessive force may be resisted.
2. The person coming to the defense has not, by provocation or otherwise, forfeited the right of self-defense
3. A person is not justified in using force if:
 - a. He/she intentionally provokes unlawful action by another person to

- cause bodily injury of death to such other person; or
- b. He/she has entered into a mutual combat with another person or is excessive in the circumstances. A person's use of defensive force after he/she leaves from an encounter and indicates to the other person that he/she is discontinuing the mutual combat subsequently is justified if the latter nevertheless continues or menaces unlawful action.

ADOPTED TMBC5619-04-94

26.0507 Defense of others.

A person is justified in using force upon another assaulted person in order to defend anyone else if:

1. The person defended would be justified in defending himself; and
2. The person coming to the defense has not, by provocation or otherwise, forfeited the right of self-defense.

ADOPTED TMBC5619-04-94

26.0507.01 Use of Deadly Force

The use of deadly force is a defense only where the defendant reasonably believes that such force is necessary to protect himself or herself or another person against death, serious bodily harm, kidnapping, burglary of an occupied home, a sexual act compelled by force or threat, or to prevent or terminate the commission or attempted crime of arson. ADOPTED TMBC1246-06-18.

26.0508 Justification.

1. Except as otherwise expressly provided, justification or excuse under this Chapter is a defense.
2. If a person is justified or excused in using force against another, but he/she recklessly or negligently injures or creates a risk of injury to other persons, the justifications afforded by this Chapter are unavailable in a prosecution for such recklessness or negligence.
3. That conduct may be justified or excused within the meaning of this Chapter does not abolish or impair any remedy by such conduct which is available in any civil action.
4. No person can be punished for an otherwise illegal act when the act is committed in an emergency or protect life, limb or property.
5. Any damage resulting from such emergency act must be reasonable compared to the person need.

ADOPTED TMBC5619-04-94 PARAGRAPHS 1-5.

6. The person committing the emergency act under the Good Samaritan law which grants immunity, if the Good Samaritan makes an error while delivering emergency medical care, he/she cannot be held legally liable for the damages in Court. However, two conditions usually must be met;
 - a. the aid must be given at the scene of the emergency, and
 - b. if the Good Samaritan has other motives, such as the hope of being paid a fee or reward, then the law will not apply.
7. When law enforcement officers are by, this Chapter, authorized to act in the prevention of public offenses, other persons, who by a law enforcement official's command, act in their aid, are justified in so doing. Such other persons shall be entitled to employ the same degree of force as provided for in of this Chapter herein and shall not be liable.
8. When a person's conduct would otherwise constitute an attempt under Subsection 26.0901 of this section, it is an affirmative defense that he abandoned his effort to commit the crime or otherwise prevented its commission, under circumstances manifesting a complete and voluntary renunciation of his criminal purpose. The establishment of such defense does not, however, affect the liability of an accomplice who did not join in such abandonment or prevention.

9. Within the meaning of this Chapter, abandonment of criminal purpose is not voluntary if it is motivated, in whole or in part, by circumstances, not present or apparent at the inception of the actor's course of conduct, which increases the probability of detection or apprehension or which make more difficult in the accomplishment of the criminal purpose. Abandonment is not complete if it is motivated by a decision to postpone the criminal conduct until a more advantageous time or to transfer the criminal effort to another but similar objective or victim.

ADOPTED TMBC1246-06-18, PARAGRAPHS 6,7, AND 9. PREVIOUS PARAGRAPH 6 REPEALED AND REPLACED. PARAGRAPH 7 PREVIOUSLY NUMBERED 26.0902.

26.0509 Duress.

1. It is an affirmative defense that the person engaged in the conduct because he was compelled to do so by force or threat of force. Compulsion within the meaning of this section exists only if the force, threat, or circumstances are such as would render a person of reasonable firmness incapable of resisting the pressure.
2. The defense defined in this section is not available to a person who, by voluntarily entering into a criminal enterprise, or otherwise, willfully placed himself in a situation in which it was foreseeable that he was negligent in placing himself in such a situation, whenever negligence suffices to establish culpability for the offense charged.

ADOPTED TMBC5619-04-94

26.0510 Entrapment.

1. It is an affirmative defense that the defendant was entrapped into committing the offense.
2. A law enforcement agent commits an entrapment if, for the purpose of obtaining evidence of the commission of a crime, the law enforcement agent induces or encourages and, as a direct result, causes another person to engage in conduct establishing such a crime by using methods of persuasion or inducement which create a substantial risk that such crime will be committed by a person other than on who is ready to commit it. Conduct simply allowing an opportunity to commit an offense does not establish entrapment.
